See below on the 18th June 2025 FNB Legal reminded Peter (and thus informed Rynette who operates Peter's email) that:

"The current mandate states that any of the directors of the company may act independently of each other."

So not only do the bank mandates render the foundational basis of the interdict void ab initio but demonstrates ongoing attempts to seize control of accounts.
This foreknowledge proves the interdict was obtained as a fraud upon the court as well as premeditated intent to commit perjury in the affidavit used to obtain the ex parte interdict.

Warm Regards
Dan

Subject: RE: REGIMA WORLDWIDE DISTRIBUTION (PTY) LTD - [External Email]

Good day Peter and Jacqui,

My apologies for the delay in response.

Following an engagement with our legal department, a decision was made that we have no need to hold a meeting with the Directors of REGIMA WORLDWIDE DISTRIBUTION (PTY) LTD as FNB cannot be held liable for acting in accordance with a validly signed mandate.

The current mandate states that any of the directors of the company may act independently of each other. If the current CAR mandate no longer suits the needs of the company, then the directors must change it – by providing us with a resolution to that effect.

We trust you will find all in order.

Kind regards,
